SOCIAL and PERSONAL

MEMBERS of the Senior and Junior Oakwood Memorial Associations, accompanied by representatives of other memorial and Confederate organizations in the city, will assemble at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in St. John's Church, and proceed to Oakwood Cemetery, where at 4 o'clock Judge William H. Mann will be the orator. The memorial exercises this year will be especially interesting and impressive. Those in charge have lost none of the spirit which distinguished their work when they first began these celebrations in honor of the Confederate dead in Oakwood.

A beautiful feature of the day is to be the launching of the "dove" boat, which is to take place at far from the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, after the exercises at Oakwood. The Juniors cherish their craft this year the Virginia, and she will be set afloat by Miss Lura Atkinson and Miss Elizabeth Andrews, after a prayer of devotion by Rev. R. A. Goodwin, of St. John's Episcopal Church.

The city tug will carry the boat out and just as it is cut loose, a salute will be fired by the Howitzers' gun on the brow of Libby Hill, where Captain Myers will be in charge.

Last year the Dixie decorated in flowers, flags and ribbons, was launched with such success that the young people will have a much larger boat to-day as a memorial tribute to those who fought for the Confederacy on the waters of the James and Chesapeake. Entered by Rev. R. A. Goodwin, of St. John's Episcopal Church.
